IDLEWYLD INN

Idlewyld Now Officially One Of Ontario's Finest Inns

LONDON – Innkeeper and owner Christine Kropp has always known in her heart that the Idlewyld Inn was among the best in the province, but now it's official. Ontario's Finest Inns has added the London landmark to its prestigious roster. "We're thrilled and we're honoured to be accepted as a member in this elite group" says Christine. "It gives us the seal of approval from one of the most respected bodies in the industry".

Before a property is granted membership with Ontario's Finest Inns it must first undergo an extensive review process and be approved by the board. "They looked at the overall ambience and character of the inn, then they judged us on virtually every aspect of our operation to make sure we met their stringent quality assurance program" adds Kropp. "When somebody stays at an inn that displays the Ontario's Finest Inns logo, they know that it's a sign of high standards and quality hospitality. We're proud to say the Idlewyld now bears that symbol."

Since purchasing the Idlewyld last year, Christine says more and more people are discovering its appeal. "There are a number of very fine hotels in this city, but people tell us that staying at an inn is a completely different experience. We offer them a very unique, elegant Victorian atmosphere with all the ornate hand-carved woodwork and charming antiques. In the midst of this incredible ambience, there is an underlying warm, homey feeling that we create by the way that we interact with people. Our visitors tell us that they truly feel like an invited guest in this incredible mansion." She adds, "With the amount of repeat business we've seen from both our corporate and leisure guests, we knew we were on the right track with the inn. Being the only property in London to be included in Ontario's Finest Inns just confirms it."
